Rise: How a House Built a Family: Cara Brookins ... Riveting and motivating, Rise is an intriguing pair of stories, one of how a determined woman faces very real danger from a physically abusive, mentally ill stalker ex and the other of how one builds a house without first having a clue how to do so. In the process of doing both simultaneously, The author and her family learn through, literally, blood, sweat and tears, that if they can get through this, they can get through anything. Rise: How A House Built A Family | Cara Brookins Official Site She's the author of eight books, including Rise, How a House Built a family, which tells the story of building her 3500 square foot house with the help of her four children by watching YouTube tutorials. Rise: How a House Built a Family Kindle Edition - amazon.com "If Rise were a novel, the plotâ€•woman escapes domestic violence to build her own house, assisted only by her children and YouTube videosâ€•would seem impossibly far-fetched. But Cara Brookins actually lived this story, and reading her account of it slowly filled me to the brim with admiration, hope, and belief that a determined human can do practically anything.

Rise: How a House Built a Family by Cara Brookins Rise is an amazing true story about a motherâ€™s determination to accomplish the near impossible. Cara Brookins needed a home for her children; a place that hadn't already been, tainted by memories, of her ex-husbandâ€™s frightening and bizarre behavior. But, since she didnâ€™t have money to buy a new home, she decided to build one, with the help of YouTube videos and her children. Rise: How a House Built a Family | Bookreporter.com Troubled by her failed marriages and stalked by a schizophrenic ex-husband, a mother of four decides to do the impossible --- build a house with nothing but woman and child labor --- and, in the process, construct a new foundation for their lives, with solid protective walls and windows open to a brighter prospect.
